Leading a Board Nov 05 2022 Leading a Board provides highly relevant insights on dealing with challenges every chairman faces. Dr. Andreas Jacobs, Chairman of INSEAD Board, Member of Jacobs Holding AG Board An insightful, well-researched and crafted book, which demystifies the practice and art of good Chairmanship. Helen Pitcher OBE, Governance Expert and Chairman Public, Private and Charitable Sectors A must read for anyone contemplating taking on the responsibilities of chairing a board. Bryan K. Sanderson, CBE, Chairman and Founding Director of Home Renaissance Foundation, Chair of Low Pay Commission and Chairman of Florence Nightingale Foundation This book represents the first cross-country study of the work of board chairs in Europe. It focuses on what board leaders actually do, rather than what they should do, and elaborates on a conceptual contingency framework for understanding chairs work in Europe. In this second edition, 18 experts from 14 European countries interviewed more than 300 chairs, CEOs, directors and shareholders to detect and compare specific practices and instruments that chairs use to deal with various challenges. Researchers also assessed the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic on the work of chairs and the boards they lead. The book benefits incumbent and future chairs, directors, shareholders, CEOs, executives and regulators in developing a systemic understanding of the work of a chair in the European business context and gaining insights into how the leader of the board deals with specific challenges.

Making Boards Work Jul 09 2020 With increasing muscle-flexing of shareholders, especially large fund managers,boards of directors are being held accountable for a higher standard of professional behaviour. Making Boards Work focuses on the management of the governance process and outlines specific, practical, how-to steps and actions that can be implemented to make any board more effective. Making extensive use of Canadian case studies drawn from actual experiences, authors David Leighton and Donald Thain illustrate many challenges facing those involved in governance and offer practical solutions. Making Boards Work will help directors, shareholders, managers, advisers, regulators, and legislators alike to -- -better understand the challenges and potential rewards of professional governance -understand and manage the six key success factors for boards -evaluate a board's strengths and weaknesses -outline a new code of conduct for directors -foster and manage a climate of constructive dissent -establish guidelines for an effective chairman -understand why boards fail and how to turn around an underperforming board Authors David Leighton and Donald Thain's experience in corporate governance spans 31 corporate boards, 280 man-years of board service, and literally thousands of board and committee meetings. This wealth of experience translates into an invaluable guide to effective governance that will "ring true" to all those who have grappled with board situations.

The Realpolitik of the Unlisted Company Board Aug 02 2022 What, beyond simple legal necessity, is the real purpose of a Board in NewCos through to pre-IPO Companies? How do you do it well? How and why is it done badly? In what way do successful serial entrepreneurs approach the Board dramatically differently from inexperienced first-time Founders?The Realpolitik of the Unlisted Company Board answers all these questions and many more based on conversations with eighty experienced UK SmallCo Board members - Founders, CEOs, Chairmen, SmallCo and BigCo NEDs, Angels and VCs - whose Board experience ranged from relatively little to, in some cases, over half a century. Interviewees' combined experience of Boards amounted to thousands of man-years. The content, the larger part of Realpolitik, features over four hundred quotes from interviewees. Done well the Board can turbocharge your Company's success, done badly it can prevent it. Realpolitik lays out a 'warts and all' map of the territory, of what happens in the real world. An archetypal example is a quote from a Founder: "my Board meetings are shit". This is the world of Realpolitik. Life doesn't always work out right does it? What do you do then? What led to this outcome for this Founder and many more? What are the ways out of this? How might you avoid this fate with your Board? How might you not just avoid angst but build a great Board? Realpolitik answers all these questions and more by crowdsourcing way more experience than any Director could possibly gain in a single lifetime. It will thus be of incalculable value to Founders, current SmallCo Directors and those who invest in SmallCos.The contextual chapters of Realpolitik are of much wider interest to all Directors and students of the Company and cover the eight essences of the SmallCo Board, the history of Boards and their governance from their 16thC inception and an examination of 21stC Board challenges. Bizarrely, in a world where the governance of Companies is so tightly regulated, the history thereof is amazingly poorly understood, if understood at all. This is of no mere academic interest: most of the thornier 21stC challenges for all Company Boards and Directors have their roots in decisions made long ago."Realpolitik' represents an immense body of work. Mike Baliman has approached the subject with the detailed analysis typical of probably the first Global Head of Risk in the City - for Kleinwort Benson then the City's pre-eminent investment bank. He has combined that with the precision of thought which emanates from his original trade as a software engineer, tempered by his experience of fund management which has given him great insight into what the 'market' wants from companies. Finally he has drawn upon the tremendous breadth of knowledge he has mined from interviewing major City and commercial figures for his hugely successful Fintech podcast. These include luminaries such as Lord Turner, the former Head of the FSA, Sir Paul Tucker, Deputy Governor of the Bank of England, the leading economist Professor John Kay as well as many others." Brian Basham, Chairman, Director, Angel and serial entrepreneur for over fifty years including founding and floating the Broad Street Group.
